the state YF&R Committee.

"With the cost of land and equipment being so high, many young people are scared away from agriculture. We personally have a 1,200-acre ranch that is in our family, but it is being leased out because we cannot afford to start our own operation," they said.

"The agriculture industry must find a way for farmers and ranchers to be productive without being forced to live in debt. The agriculture industry must find ways to assist new farmers and ranchers."

The Harmons are doing their part to educate themselves and others about agriculture. As co-chairmen of their county YF&R, they have organized food drives, attended legislative, resolution and board meetings, helped with Food Check-Out Day and been active in Ag in the Classroom.

On the state level, they have served on the YF&R Committee and represented it at 4-H and FFA functions as well as national conferences and conventions.

Their activities are not confined to Farm Bureau. Both are active in the Cattlemen's Association and Mid Oklahoma Co-op as well as school and church organizations.

"The agriculture industry must educate leaders and the general public so they will support agriculture," they said.

As the Oklahoma award winner, the Harmons will represent the Sooner State in the American Farm Bureau finals at the national convention in January 2005. In addition to the trip the Charlotte, N.C., national convention, they were awarded a four-wheeler ATV courtesy of Farm Credit and a $500 cash award from Dodge.

"We are looking for ways to increase our members and help them develop into leaders. We also want to increase the community's awareness about our group and agriculture."

Renters: insurance is important

If you are renting a home or apartment, and something happens to your belongings, it is up to your landlord's insurance policy to cover them, right? Wrong! That misconception could leave you empty handed and unprotected if the unthinkable occurs, which is why it is important to get renter's insurance.

A recent poll by the Independent Insurance Agents & Brokers of America found that two thirds of renters in the U.S. choose not to purchase renter's insurance – often under the belief that it's the landlord's responsibility. So, what kind of protection should you get to protect your property?

The average renter's insurance policy only covers your personal property within policy limits but many have provisions to cover additional living expenses if you're forced to stay elsewhere. So check your policy.

Once you purchase a renter's policy, take an inventory of all your belongings – furniture, electronics, even your clothes. A photo or video log will show your insurer all the belongings that were lost. Store your inventory somewhere safe outside your home and update it as needed. Also, be sure to discuss additional coverage options with your agent if you have any recent major purchases.

Possessions aren't any less valuable just because they belong to someone who rents. Even if you're on a tight budget it's important to purchase some level of protection for your belongings. Misinformation about renters insurance exists among many Americans who may not realize that the contents of their rented homes and apartments are not covered under the landlord's insurance policy. Most renter's insurance is fairly inexpensive and will be cheaper than replacing all of the items lost if your home or apartment is damaged.

SAVORY POT ROAST

- 1 (3 to 3-1/2 lb.) Certified Angus Beef® shoulder or chuck roast
- 2 tbs. red wine vinegar
- 2 tbs. Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tbs. soy sauce
- 1/3 cup catsup
- 1 tsp. minced garlic

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Spray non-stick skillet with vegetable spray (or use 1 tsp. oil) and brown all sides of roast over medium-high heat. Transfer meat to roasting pan or place beef in slow cooker (crock pot). Set on low setting.
2. Combine vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, soy sauce, catsup and garlic; pour over roast. Cover and bake in the oven approximately 1 hour and 30 minutes for medium rare or to desired degree of doneness. For slow cooker (crock pot), cook on the low setting for approximately 5 hours for medium rare at 150° F. Time may vary with different crock pots, so check temperature with thermometer.
3. Slice roast and serve with pan juices, or make a gravy. To do so, transfer pan juices to small saucepan and bring to a boil. Mix together 1/4 cup water and 2 tablespoons flour; slowly add to boiling pan juices, stirring constantly; cook for two minutes and serve with roast.

Preparation Time: 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 1 hour and 30 minutes (oven) 5 hours (slow cooker)

PEPPERED PORK ROAST

- 1 4-pound pork loin roast (or 2 2-pound roasts)
- 6 tablespoons pepper blend seasoning

Rub all surfaces of roast(s) with seasoned pepper. Place pork in shallow roasting pan and roast in 350° F oven for 45 minutes to 1 hour and 15 minutes, until internal temperature (measured with a meat thermometer) reads 150° F. Remove from oven and allow roast to rest for 10 minutes. Slice and serve.

Wrap and refrigerate leftovers for up to three days.

NURSERY STOCK SALE!

HYBRID WILLOWS Easy to grow! Fast growing! Long lived!

(Salix Hybrid) These are the fastest growing trees we know of for shade, privacy, wind protection and soil conservation. They grow up to 1/3 faster than our hybrid poplars! Small, one foot cuttings planted at a university reached from 14 to 20 feet the first year! These Hybrid Willows are very hardy, very disease resistant and can withstand extreme weather conditions. They survived in most areas of Canada and grow as far south as Florida! They thrive in dry soils and help dry out boggy land. Zones 3-8.

Excellent for landscaping!

▲ 1-year old Hybrid Willows are tall and upright growing. They do not
 ◀ 2-years old have brittle wood. These trees often reach 80-100 feet tall with lateral branches from the ground up. This provides a full dense cover that makes them ideal for use as shelter belts. The fastest growth period is in the first five years.

Great screens and shelter belts!

These make great screens, as well as good sound and dust barriers. Trees do not spread by seed or sucker. Plant 3 feet apart in single rows for a dense cover about 8-15 feet wide within the first year. Excellent where severe winds are prevalent. Prevent wind and soil erosion. Animal fodder — shoots and leaves are an excellent source of green, tasty, non-toxic feed in dry summer months. Healthy 2-3 foot trees.

COLORADO BLUE SPRUCE
 Add value to your property!

This is the ultimate in specimen evergreens. Glistening, steel blue coloring and graceful conical shape. So dense growing these make superb wind breaks or privacy screens where there is space enough for large spreading trees. Will grow to 50' or more in 35 to 50 years. Does best in full sun and moist soil. Will survive in light, dry soil if watered while root system is becoming established. Nicely branched, 5 year old transplanted trees at least 1-2' tall. Well developed root system.
